DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 11-16, 22-27 and 33-38 are drawn to system, a method, and apparatus for enabling an intellectual property exchange by generating a valuation of an intellectual property asset based on call option pricing theory, information about the intellectual property asset and the information about the publicly traded securities according to technology classification.
- II. Claims 17-18, 28-29 and 39-40 are drawn to system, a method, and apparatus for a method, for enabling an intellectual property exchange by translating quantitative information about attributes of a technology described by an intellectual property asset from user defined units to standard scientific units and storing information about the intellectual property asset in a database associated with the intellectual property exchange, which information comprises the user defined units and the quantitative information in standard scientific units.

III claims 19, 30 and 41 are drawn to system, a method, and apparatus for enabling an intellectual property exchange wherein the intellectual property rights are transferred from a seller to a buyer are transferred using an escrow service subsequent to receiving an acceptance of a bid from a seller of the intellectual property rights.

IV. Claims 20, 31 and 42 are drawn to system, a method, and apparatus for enabling an intellectual property exchange based upon an index of market value corresponding to the technology classification as an average of enterprise values of the companies, using information about companies stored in a database.

And

V. Claims 21, 32 and 43 are drawn to system, a method, and apparatus for enabling an intellectual property exchange based obtaining qualification information from potential buyers and sellers and allowing only qualified buyers and sellers to exchange intellectual property rights.

Art Unit: 3624

2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I-V are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination.

The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable.

In the instant case,

-- Invention I has separate utility such as generating a valuation of an intellectual property asset based on call option pricing theory, information about the intellectual property asset and the information about the publicly traded securities according to technology classification,

-- Invention II has separate utility such as translating quantitative information about attributes of a technology described by an intellectual property asset from user defined units to standard scientific units and storing information about the intellectual property asset in a database associated with the intellectual property exchange, which information comprises the user defined units and the quantitative information in standard scientific units,

--Invention III has separate utility such as transferring intellectual property rights from a seller to a buyer using an escrow service subsequent to receiving an acceptance of a bid from a seller of the intellectual property rights,

Art Unit: 3624

--Invention IV has separate utility such as computing an index of market value corresponding to technology classification as an average of enterprise values of the companies using information about companies stored in a database, and

--Invention V has separate utility such as obtaining qualification information from potential buyers and sellers and allowing only qualified buyers and sellers to exchange intellectual property rights.

See MPEP § 806.05(d).

3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the different search is required for each Group, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

4. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

5. A telephone call was made to Agent Roberta P. Saxon (Reg 43,087) on 4/20/05 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

6. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Art Unit: 3624

7. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

8. Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.
